

Abstract

Arranging a magnetic sensor in a position within $2^{-1/2}$ of the radius from the center of a component in a circular shape assuming magnetism, and correcting deflection by deflection amount correcting circuit of an output from the magnetic sensor in accordance with the relative position between the magnetic sensor and the component.